My experience with Cliff began when he first moved from California and set up shop in Utah. I had just cancelled a contract with another cabinet company for a botched job, on a significant residential project. There had been countless, unresolved issues... poor joinery, components not built to specs, sub-standard finishes, etc. My office manager told me about Cliff and asked if I would consider giving him a call. So, I did.

Cliff literally rescued me! He re-crafted a paneled fireplace surround and mantle, made complex modifications to a bay window seat-cabinet configuration, and collaborated with me how to conceal and access electronic equipment cords within a Library wainscot treatment. He then filled, sanded, and finished everything, to perfection...all in a very timely manner!

Cliff has proven to be one of the most conscientious and methodical craftsmen I've worked with throughout my 27 years in design. He is a problem solver who responds well to challenges. He understands complexities in engineering and design, and is precise with everything he crafts. He communicates extremely well, keeps his time commitments, is always fair and reasonable, maintains a great disposition, and is a pleasure to work with...textbook!

Today, quality throughout the building industry seems to be undermined by the "build it quick 'n cheap" approach. Sub-standard quality can be successfully camouflaged behind a pretty cabinet door.

The difference with Cliff is, He invites you to "look behind the door."
